preached at the First church, where there was a very fine congregation. The other pastors in the pulpit were Rev. Drs. Cooper, Nelson, and Corey. Mr. Dill's text was the first clause of the lith verse of the 65th Psalm. "Thou crownest the year with Thy goodness," and his sermon was a beautiful one, in which the blessings for which the American people should be thankful were enumerated. The minister drew many practical lessons from the anniversary. The music was excellent. The collection, which was for the benefit of the Baptist Home for Aged Women, was quite a large one.

Rev. H. A. Bagby, the talented young pastor of Clay-Street, preached at Venable-Street church, and was heard with pleasure and profit by a large congregation. Mr. Bagby's recital of the blessings that our country and community have received during the year now rapidly nearing its end was very impressive.

grateful, Mr. Wright said, for our exist-ence, for the blessings that come to us in nature, for our national life, for the inventions of the age, for our home life, and above all for God's bless-ing to us in redemption. Without the Christian's hope our home life would re-mind us that there is nothing after this life to enjoy. The speaker closed with a practical personal application of the practical, personal application of the

METHODISTS AND DISCIPLES. METHODISTS AND DISCIPLES.

Owing to the fact that conference had not adjourned, there were not as many ministers present as were expected to attend the Methodist union service at Park-Place church, Dr. H. E. Johnson, who, in company with Dr. W. J. Young, left Danville the night before, preached a fine sermon. His text was taken from the psalm xvi. 6. Dr. Johnson commenced by saying that nature had done much for America; man had done more, but America; man had done more, but vidence had done most. He spoke on blessings coming to us as follows: irst, of the wealth of nature; second,

All of these, he said, had come to us as a goodly heritage.

The hospital corps was also out with a good number of men. Several of the corps were mounted, and had their services been needed they would have been ready and fixed to treat most any case. As it was, only a few sick-headaches were treated.

A Brilliant Charity Reception The reception held at the Executive Mansion last night by the Ladles' Board of Managers of the Virginia Hospital was til nearly midnight. Y. M. C. A. Athletes Outing.

About thirty members of the Young Men's Christian Association gymnasium, headed by Professor Schatzel, went out to Forest-Hill Park yesterday morning and spent several hours in athletic sports. The trip was made in the street-cars, and a delightful time was spent, the boys returning in time to attend the great game of foot-ball on the island.

Two twenty-minute halves of basketball were first played, with teams selected from the business-men's and young men's classes. The former won by a score of 6 to 2.

A foot-ball game was played between

A foot-ball game was played between elevens from the same classes, and in this the business-men were again successful, the score standing 6 to 0 against the youngsters. In the first half neither side scored.

The Sir Knights Have a Delightful Re-

The Commandery of St. Andrew, 12, K. T., held its annual assembly at the Masonic Temple last night—the fes-tival of St. Andrew, the Apostle. There was an inspection at 7 o'clock, and the was an inspection at 7 o'clock, and the ranks were quite full, and the commandery presented a very handsome appearance. After the inspection the body was opened, and the following grand officers were received: Right-Eminent E. E. Dowman, of Alexandria, Grand Commander; John T. Parham, of Petersburg, Grand Generalissimo; E. H. Miller, of Danville; Grand-Captain-Genral James H. Capers, of Richmond; Grand-Senior-Warden J. V. Bidgood, of Richmond; Grand-Recorder F. A. Reed, of Alexandria; Past-Grand Commander Eminet Commander, L. P. Ecker, of Alexandria.

inet Commander, L. P. Ecker, of Alexandria.

Eminent-Commander L. P. Ecker read an interesting address, in which he reviewed the history of the commandery from its organization, in 1878, with its hirty-eight charter members, up to the present time, when it has a membership of 128 good and true, and with a personnel that cannot be excelled. Since Mr. Ecker's election as eminent commander two years ago, there have been twenty-eight additions, of which twenty-one were created, and seven received from other commanderles. As an evidence of what can be done by earnest work, the Commander states that since he became a member of the commanders for orders, and recommended ten others. The Eminent Commander expresses deep love for the commander expresses deep love for the commander expresses deep love for the commander prescribed dross.

Although the expenses of the past year were very heavy, the organization is out of debt, and still has about 250 of outstanding dues. Under the new ritual the Order of the Red Cross to be properly exemplified, must be conferred in full regalia, a full outfit of which will coat 175. It has been suggested that this commandery and No. 2 might purchase an outfit in conjunction.

Continuing, the Eminent Commander urses the members to renewed zeal in bringing in desirable additions; insists upon each knight observing the by-laws with reference to uniforms, asks for better attendance: notes with thankfulness that there have been no deaths in the last two years, and closes by calling attention to the Triennial Conclave at Boston in 1896, and strongly ursed that prompt steps be taken to engage desirable quarters, and provide for transportation and entertainment.

The commandery re-elected all of its old officers for the ensuing year.

The knights sat down to banquet at 10 o'clock.

It was stated on authority that the commandery would receive a pressing in ria. Eminent-Commander L. P. Ecker read cold wave which now extends over the Still Wanted to Spar.

The athletic carnival that it was preposed to hold in the Sanger Hall dining-room last night did not take place. As the authorities refused to allow the four-round set-to between Wongo, the Indian puglist of Portsmouth, and Jack Bolan, the champion welter-weight of Cincinnati, which would undoubtedly have proved the drawing-card, it was decided not to give the entertainment.

Bolan arrived in the city last evening, and it was said that he and Wongo would spar for points at Tholi's hall, on west Broad street, but the police were on hand to prevent the meeting. At 1 o'clock this morning there had been no match so far as the officers of the Third District knew, and they were still on the alert to prevent any infraction of the law. The exposition-grounds was suggested as a place at which the two puglists might test one the other's skill. Still Wanted to Spar. to mourn their loss.
